Starting next week:

Now there's a cartoon that takes a humorous look at the serious business of the video TV world enjoyed by many teenagers.

The weekly strip, "The Rock Channel," is by three young men ranging in age from 24 to 33 years whose talent we hope will bring a fresh outlook to The Herald-Journal's Young Ideas page starting July 21.

You'll meet a group of wacky VJs who interview and comment upon the likes of singers and musicians currently popular on video rock stations.

Watch for "The Rock Channel."

It'll rock your socks off.
